Jeremy Winston, director, will ensure that the choir's repertoire artistically represents a variety of musical selections. The Wilberforce University Choir traces its roots back to 1878 as a standing reminder of the days when the traveling chorus was the life and support for many of our Historically Black Colleges and Universities. Wilberforce University founded in 1856 is the first HBCU.

The choir has been featured with Wynton Marsalis and The Lincoln Jazz Orchestra on the world premiere of his "Gospel Mass" at the Lincoln Center in New York, New Orleans Jazz and Heritage Festival, Kennedy Center's Millennium Stage and every year the choir participates in two spring concerts across the country.
